About Columbia more Irish potatoes have been planted than in any previous year, and when the ground gets a little warmer, all seed that brings something to eat will be planted. Eld. W. G. Montgomery, who is a native of Adair and a popular minister in Columbia, came over from Campbellsville, where he is located, and preached a patriotic sermon at the Christian church last Sunday night. He was greeted by a very large congregation, every available space being taken. He favors war with Germany and read Scripture to back his position.

Eastern oil men who have been here and who now have men taking leases for them in Adair, say that they are confident that oil in paying quantities can be found in the county. They are going to make thorough tests by putting down deep wells. What a county for business Adair would be if an oil field is found here? Columbia would grow rapidly and the farmers would be made rich.

The rain last Saturday afternoon interfered with the baseball game, Greensburg against the Lindsey-Wilson. The visiting team arrived in due time, and soon after it reached here the rain commenced. The game was started late, but could not be played to a conclusion. At the end of the third inning the boys threw up the sponge, the score standing one and one.

We learn from Mr. W. H. Irvine, who was here from Russell Springs, on Friday of last week that hands were now finishing grading the road from his town to Jamestown. He further stated that men were employed getting up rock which will be crushed, and that some time this summer the road connecting the two towns would be completed. It is hoped that nothing will prevent this very desirable work from progressing.

It comes from Washington that the young men of the country will be directed to register for enlistment in about two weeks. The sheriffs of counties will be in charge and those who refuse to register will be arrested and delivered to the proper authorities. After the requisite number of names have been put in the wheel, the decision as to who will go will be decided by lot.

Mr. Wm. S. Bailey, who was a native of Adair county, died on the 11th of April, 1917, at his home in Macomb, Ill. He was born October 21, 1821, hence he was 95 years old at the time of his death. His father was William Washington Bailey and his mother Elizabeth (Walker) Bailey. She was related to the family of Walker, of this county, who were known for their honesty and respectability. Mr. Bailey settled at Macomb when the town was in its infancy, grew up with it and became very wealthy.

She was a daughter of Jack Bridgewater and was born and reared at Cane Valley, this county. She was educated in Columbia, and was married to her husband, at the home of Judge W. E. Russell, near this place, in 1866. Soon after this marriage they removed to Lebanon, and after living there twenty years removed to Louisville. Mrs. Russell was buried at Lebanon.

Office-Help Wanted.

There is no necessity for anyone working on a small salary and under hard conditions, when a little preparation in a good business college will put him in a good position to enjoy a lucrative salary, and all the promotion he deserves. It is said that the Business University in Bowling Green is overrun with calls for qualified office-help.

Metcalfe county some time ago voted bonds to the extent of thirty thousand dollars for road purposes. It is the intention of the Court to start work on one road leading out of Edmonton this year, and the road that will donate the most money will be first choice. The road leading to Columbia is in the fight. Mr. J. H. Kinnard has subscribed one thousand dollars and there are several five hundred dollar contributors, and the fund is still growing. A decision will be rendered the 15th of this month. We trust that the Columbia road will win.

Hoarding gold in 1907 caused the great panic of that year. Hoarding food in 1917 is keeping the prices up, and would cause a food panic were it not for the fact that there is as much money as food. Every man who gets alarmed at the unusual prices, and buys up more food than he needs just because "it might go higher," helps to raise the prices and keep them there. Food speculators may be causing much of the unnecessary high prices, but "panicky" buyers are helping things along, to the delight of the said speculators. Don't buy more than you need; the war cannot affect the soil, nor the rains, nor anything like that. Just as much can be raised this year as any other year. And when food speculators find that people are not foolish enough to buy out all they have at high prices for fear that there might be a food shortage, then prices will come down.—Larue County Herald.

I buy and pay cash for eggs, wool and hides—pay top prices.

New Dollar Bills.

The new one-dollar bills recently put into circulation by the government to take the place of new silver dollars have made their appearance. The bill is a beautiful one and resembles a five dollar bill and very much prettier than the old one. It bears the picture of George Washington in the center instead of on the end, and in the corner is the discovery of America.

Stone, died at Lexington, where he had gone from Monticello, his location, for treatment, last Saturday week. He was about 73 years old, a man of the strictest integrity and was popular with every body who knew him. He was known to a great many Columbians, all of whom were sorry to learn of his demise. The body was shipped to Jamestown for interment, and the last rites were attended by many friends.

Married in Oklahoma.

The residents of Columbia remember with pleasure the visit made here last summer by Misses Nelle and Jess Naylor, of Okeene, Okla. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Naylor, are natives of this county, and they are justly proud of their two daughters. The oldest one, Miss Nelle, has left the parental home, leaving a vacancy that can not be filled, as she was married on the 5th of April to Mr. Louis W. Lindsay, a prominent and influential business man of Fairview, Oklahoma. All Columbia sends congratulations.

Engagement Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Gay Storde, of Lexington, Ky., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Evans Storde, to Mr. Paul E. Dixon, of Bowling Green. Now it is not our intention to throw reflections on any President, past or present, for all have doubtless made mistakes sometime during their administrations—to err is human. Some people are so narrow that if a President is not of their own political faith, they brand him as a weak and miserable failure.

We have heard people say if Roosevelt had been President we would have been in war fighting like dogs. Theodore Roosevelt is not the fierce, war-like creature, some make him out to be. Have they forgotten (or did they ever know) that it was the hand of Theodore Roosevelt, who guided the destinies of this nation from 1901 to 1909. It seems to us that if people would spend their time in studying history instead of handling idle gossip which floats on the wind, they would know how to appreciate men and statesmen who have made this grand old United States what she is today.

No Eggs, Milk or Butter

The following recipe shows how an appetizing, wholesome cake can be made without expensive ingredients.

In many other recipes the number of eggs may be reduced one-half or more by using an additional quantity of ROYAL Baking Powder, about a teaspoon, in place of each egg omitted.

EGGLESS, MILKLESS, BUTTERLESS CAKE

1 cup brown sugar
1 1/2 cups water
1 cup seeded raisins
2 ounces citron
1/4 cup shortening

1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
5 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

The old method (fruit cake) called for 2 eggs

DIRECTIONS—Put the first eight ingredients into saucepan and boil three minutes. When cool, add the flour and baking powder which have been sifted together; mix well. Bake in moderate oven in loaf pan (round tin with hole in center is best) for 35 or 40 minutes. Ice with white icing.

Avoid Criticism.

Criticism is a weapon that should be used very carefully. It doesn't take brains or heart to find fault. Never under-rate the work of others. Especially should singers, speak well of those in the same profession, and writers of writers. Addison said: "I never knew a critic who made it his business to lash the faults of other writers that was not guilty of greater faults himself." Whitier said: "I read a book with sympathy for the author. It is easy to tear a volume in pieces by criticism, but I try to find its merits." We are so apt to criticize a person's clothes or house or manner. It is a good rule not always followed, never to say in a person's absence what you would not say in his presence. The great need of the world is charity. Would that Lincoln's immortal words could be painted like Constantine's cross of cold in the blue sky: "With malice toward none; with charity for all." One person loses his fortune, and is not able to meet his obligations. We do not stop to investigate; we condemn. Another, in the temptations of life, is overcome; we forget that years ago One purer than we, said, "He that is without sin among you let him cast a stone."

Interned Men Must Work.

The German sailors interned at Fort McPherson, Ga., soon will be engaged in tilling the soil in order to increase the production of food crops in this country, if present plans are carried out. It is stated that the authorities are only waiting until all arrangements can be made for compensating the Germans for their labor, as required by international law. A strip of land will be given them at the foot or nearby, and every effort will be made to raise at least enough food to feed the prisoners and enough to care for United States soldiers, too, if possible.

The Germans now no longer salute Old Glory as was the case when they first arrived. Since the declaration of war they keep in their quarters when the flag is lowered. The post has been closed entirely and no visitors are allowed. Instructions have been given the officers to the effect that more German prisoners or interned citizens will soon arrive to be imprisoned at McPherson, and it is now believed locally that Atlanta will be made the site for a huge concentration camp within a short time.

Sprains and Strains Relieved.

Sloan's Liniment quickly takes the pain out of strains, sprains, bruises and all muscle soreness. A clean, clear liquid easily applied, it quickly penetrates without rubbing. Sloan's Liniment does not stain the skin or clog the pores like mussy plasters or ointments. For chronic rheumatic aches and pains, neuralgia, gout and lumbago have this well-known remedy handy. For the pains of grippe and following strenuous work, it gives quick relief. At Paull Drug Co., 25c.

"Submarine" Heat.

As we go downward into the earth we find a steady increase of temperature. So marked is this increase that it has been seriously proposed to make very deep borings in order to obtain supplies of warm water for heating our towns.

Arago and Walferdin suggested this method of supplying warmth to the Jardin des Plantes in Paris; and now that such important improvements have been made in carrying borings to enormous depths the time may not be far distant when we shall draw extensively upon these supplies of "submarine" heat.

The City of Budapest is extensively supplied with hot water from an underground source.

It may be well to remember that in the event of our coal supply failing we have these inexhaustible supplies of heat everywhere beneath our feet.

Pikeville is the center of a good roads movement with a big slice of State Aid money and convict labor as the basis of much work this spring and summer.

Gradually, but effectively, the public mind is assimilating the fact that service to the country does not necessarily rest upon enlistment in the military arms. Gradually, those who are not fitted for the bearing of arms upon the bloody field of battle are becoming resigned to the deadly routing of agriculture, manufacture and commerce which are absolutely necessary to the maintenance of the nation under her heavy responsibilities. Let all of us who may not join gallant charge across the shell-swept field take comfort in the fact that the heroism of the hewer of wood and the drawer of water who keeps cheerfully and diligently at his humble task, sometimes is based upon firmer and sounder phases of character than that of him who goes boldly to the charge through mere love of adventure; or to avoid the irk of stated responsibilities.—Louisville Times.

Preparing the Way.

When he was 13, Alexander Hamilton had entered the employ of a merchant named Nicholas Cruger. So extraordinary was his aptitude for business that before he had been in the Cruger establishment a year his employer, having occasion to leave home for a time, left young Hamilton in sole charge. The lad, however, already had visions of a career beyond the counting house.

To a boy friend he wrote at this time, "To confess my ambition is prevalent, so that I condemn the groveling ambition of a clerk, or the like to which my ambition condemns me, and would willingly risk my life, though not my character, to exalt my station. I am confident, Ned, that my youth excludes me from any hope of immediate preferment, nor do I desire it, but I mean to prepare the way for futurity.

Hamilton's method of preparing the way was much reading of solid books and much thought upon the strength and the weakness of the political institutions of his time. When, a few years later, he arose as a leading figure in the debates that preceded the formation of the Continental Congress, it was with a mind stored with arguments. For years he had been preparing to be just that leader of men that the age demanded.

With any of us, it is not alone a question of what we are now, but what we are preparing to be by and by.

Let us remember, too, that financial independence is only of several kinds of success that it is our privilege to plan for and to win.

Southern Negroes Loyal.

The negroes of the South are loyal to the American flag and have foiled the German plots to stir up a revolution against this government, according to negro leaders who have helped the government to guard against the intrigues of plotters.

It is known that a few negroes have been induced to go to Mexico, lured there by German promises of an invasion of the United States followed by equal rights for negroes. The number who have been persuaded to make this move is comparatively small.

Educators who have worked among the negroes for years say that there is not a more loyal band of people in the country than the black men. They point out that the negro has taken an active part in every American war.

A move is on foot in Albany, Ga., to recruit a negro company, and throughout Southeastern Georgia there are incessant inquiries from the negroes as to whether or not they will be allowed to enlist or will be included in the first draft. Community leaders in such counties as Calhoun and Butler, Ga., where the negroes outnumber the whites about 25 to 1, say that they fear no trouble.

From Iowa.

Lake City, April 18, 1917.
Editor News:—

Will you please find space in your columns for a few lines written by a Kentucky boy?

I came to this State Monday, April 16th, to accept a position as teacher in the country schools. I enlisted as such, and think I will like it fine when I get acquainted with the people and their ways. I opened a two month's term on Tuesday, April 17th, and am teaching all the grades to a regiment of twenty working pupils, of whom five are preparing for the common school examination.

The farmers are looking forward to a great crop year, and are real anxious for rains to cease that they may finish sowing oats.

There are several Kentucky teachers here. Mr. Tom Weatherford, of Yuma, Taylor county, is teaching near Manson, in Calhoun county, this State. Miss Sallie Bet Pelly, of Pellyton, Ky., is also located in that section. I am the only Kentucky boy in this immediate neighborhood, but the Iowans have a very pleasant disposition.

The Superintendent of Calhoun county, Miss Jenette Lewis, is a wonderful worker for the advancement of education, and gives the Kentucky teachers credit for what they do, and extends an invitation to others who think they would like to come to Iowa and enlist with the workers. School opens at 9 a. m., and it is now nearly that time, so guess I will ring off for this time, and try to get my letter to you in time for next week's publication.

Greetings to all the Adair county people, and especially the hard-working candidates, for they deserve praise for their faithfulness to their task. I hope to be there in time to help some of them one vote.

Respt.,

Arthur C. Wolford.

Death of a Good Woman.

A message from Ozark Wednesday afternoon of last week, told the sad story that the pure soul of Mrs. Dollie Morris, wife of Mr. J. W. Morris, had left the tenement of clay and gone to that realm prepared for gentle spirits like her own. We all sat down and wept because one so pure and true had gone at the call of the righteous Judge to receive the reward prepared for the pure in heart at the foundation of the world. But she was so gentle, so kind and true, that our human nature murmured and complained at our sad loss, rather than rejoiced over the glories of her eternal home.

She had been confined to her bed for almost a year with that dread disease, consumption. All was done that loving hands could do, but to no avail, she has closed her eyes forever upon the scenes of earth, and is now enjoying the blessings of that home for which she has been striving to enter. While we know the world was better for her having lived in it, yet 'tis poorer because she is no more.

To the heart broken friends and loved ones we would say: weep not, for she is done with the troubles and trials of life, and is now beckoning to friends and loved ones to join her around God's eternal throne. Weep not for the departed one, but live in the way that when you, like her have crossed the dark river of Death, you can meet this loved one again where partings are no more.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber
Peaceful in thy grave so low,
Thou no more will join our number
Thou no more our sorrow know.

Yet, again we hope to meet thee,
When the days of life are through,
And in heaven with joy to greet thee
We shall ever flow.

Pictorial Review for May contains the first installment of "The Broken Gate," a great American story by Emerson Hough. This novel is a second Scarlet Letter and will undoubtedly create as great a sensation; the illustrations are by M. Leone Bracker. "Martel the Desirous," by Kathleen Norris, ends in this issue; illustrated by Charles E. Chambers.

The short stories in May are: "Billy Fortune" and "That Dead Broke Feeling," by the Lightons, in which Billy's philosophy carries him over some rough places. The illustrations are by Henry J. Soulen. "A Little Nipper o' Hide-an'-Seek Harbor," by Norman Duncan, is a fine story of the northeast fishing coast. The splendid illustrations are by Harvey Dunn. Mrs. Mahoney again appears in "Bonnie McGlint, Late of Broadway," by Gertrude Brooke Hamilton; illustrations by John R. Neill.—216-226 W. 39th St., New York.

An Associated Press dispatch from France Monday stated that if public attention were not so riveted upon the fighting around Arras, Lens and St. Quentin, people would realize that engagements of great importance are in progress at a half dozen other points along the Western front. In other words, the French and British are striking along the whole line, and that is the way to win a decisive success.—Louisville Post.

German Cruelties by Ivan S. Cobb.

The unspeakable cruelties of German militarism are depicted in an article of Irvin S. Cobb, the Kentucky writer, who spent several months in Belgium, shortly after the outbreak of the war.

Mr. Cobb writes:

When I read the utterances of those conscientious gentlemen who could not be brought to bear the idea of going to war with any nation for any reason, I wished with all my soul they might have stood with me in Belgium on that August day, when I and the rest of the party to which I belonged saw the German legions come pouring down, a cloud of smoke by day and a pillar of fire by night, with terror riding before them as their herald, and death and destruction and devastation in the tracks their warshod feet left upon a smiling and a fecund little land.

As though it happened yesterday instead of thirty months ago, I can recreate in my mind the physical and the mental stage settings of that moment. I can shut my eyes and see the German firing squad shooting two Belgium civilians against a brick wall. I can smell the odors of the burning houses. Yes, and the smell of the burning flesh of the dead men who were in those houses. I can hear the sound of the footsteps of the fleeing villagers and the rumble of the tread of the invaders going by so countlessly, so confidently, so triumphantly, so magnificently disciplined and so faultlessly equipped. Most of all, I can see the eyes and the faces of sundry German officers with whom I spoke. And when I do this I see their eyes shining with joy and their faces transfigured as though by a splendid vision. I can hear them—the justice of their cause, not seeking excuse for the reprisals they had ordered; not, save a few exceptions among them, deploring the unutterable misery and suffering their invasion of Belgium had wrought; not concerned with the ethical regrets of helpless and innocent noncombatants—but proud and swollen with the thought that, at every onward step, ruthless and determination and being ready had brought to them victory, conquest, spoils of war. Why these men were like beings from another world—a world of whose existence we, on this side of the water, had never dreamed.

I was an eye witness to crimes which, measured by the standards of humanity and civilization, impressed me as worse than any individual excess, any individual outrage, could ever have been or can ever be; because these crimes indubitably were instigated on a wholesale basis by order of officers of rank, and must have been carried out under their personal supervision, direction and approval. Briefly, what I saw was this: I saw wide areas of Belgium and France in which not a penny's worth of wanton destruction has been permitted to occur, in which the ripe pears hung untouched upon the garden walls; and I saw other wide areas where scarcely one stone had been left to stand upon another; where the fields were ravaged; where the male villagers had been shot in squads; where the miserable survivors had been left to die in holes like wild beasts.

The Inter-County Seat Roads.

(By Wiley, Commissioner Roads.)

Roads are built to serve the people. No doubt the Fiscal court of any county would be glad to surface with some sort of material all the roads of the county in one year, but such is impossible with the limited funds at their disposal. It, therefore, resolves itself into building first the main roads, because they accommodate the greatest number of people and the people demand that the main roads shall be kept in good condition.

When aid for the building of public roads is given by a state, they usually designate a system of roads upon which to expend the money, the idea being to lay out a system which accommodates the greatest number of people and can be built in a stated number of years with the funds available. Kentucky adopted the inter-county seat system which comprises about eight thousand miles. Other states have the same system or else what is termed a "System of Roads." The inter-county seat system usually comprises about twice the mileage of the usual system of roads as outlined in most states, and consequently serves more people, yet requires longer to build.

Statistics show that the inter-county seat system will accommodate about ninety per cent., of the traffic of the county, the people living on secondary roads will in most cases travel over one of the inter-county seat roads in the transaction of their business affairs. They would at least use the road for a part of its distance, because practically all secondary roads lead into one of the inter-county seat roads and the people living in such sections appreciate and want the main roads built first.

It lies with the fiscal court of the county to select the road or roads to be built each year and the public should appreciate the fact that all the main roads can not be built at one time because of the lack of funds, and that the roads should be built in the order of their importance, and when the inter-county seat roads are built the State will extend aid to the building of other roads in a county.

Only a part of the regular county road fund is used to take advantage of State aid, the fiscal court using the remainder to work other roads in the county in whatever manner they deem proper.

The highways are a system of transportation, the same as the rivers and railroads. A river is locked and dammed, made suitable for traffic before its tributaries, a railroad company always builds their main lines first and then the branch lines, and the same should apply to the building of roads—first construct the main lines and then the tributaries.

Revelry and Rottenness.

The folly and extravagance of the American people are exciting the comment not simply of preachers, but of other public men. Recently in the senate of the United States Senator McCumber of North Dakota, after stating that the American people are spending annually $13,000,000,000 for liquor, tobacco and amusements, bitterly denounced their profligacy and extravagance, charging that the high cost of living was due to waste and folly. He said: "This revelry in extravagant habits, this unquenchable demand for amusements, for continuous mental intoxication, is undermining the sturdiness of our younger generation. The American people seem obsessed with the idea that the main thing in life is amusement, play, entertainment." When the politicians realize the danger, it is high time that we were taking account of the situation, lest we become "lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God."—Western Methodist.

Why People Faint.

When in a place where there is a crowd and the air is stale and stuffy, there is almost always some one who will fall over in a faint.

It is plainly seen that something has happened to stop the tissue works. Perhaps you forget that your vitality must work all the time, and that if it stopped for a moment you would topple over.

That is what happens when a person faints. The switchboard brain centers which control the balance of the body and the nerves which carry orders from the senses to the muscles of the legs refuse to act.

You can guess the reason of this if you remember that the face of the person who succumbs to this state is always pale. This gives you the hint that the supply of blood to the head is defective.

The heart does not send enough blood upward, and so not only the face but the brain becomes pale and ceases to work. All tissues require a continuous supply of blood or they will cease to act.

Many wonder why the heart does not send enough blood to the head. Numerous are the possible reasons. Too much blood, for instance, may go elsewhere, the heart may be weak or poisoned by your breathing foul air, or the blood may be too poor in quality to do its work properly.

Secretary Houston urges the farmers of this country to raise big food crops and says it is impossible to raise more than is needed.

Allies Shatter all German Predictions.

The Teuton critics see a complete collapse of the grand plan of a general Allied offensive, frustrated in the west by Hindenburg's retreat.—Despatch to The World from Berlin, March 24.

The giving up of this portion of our front puts an end to all their finely laid spring offensive plans. Now at one blow all that is gone for nothing. In the face of our withdrawal all this (the immense preparation of the Allies) is useless. We are reshaping the western front lines so that we will have an aggressive initiative.—A high German official to the Associated Press correspondent in Berlin, March 18.

A new offensive move (by the Allies) will not be possible for months.—The Deutsches Tageszeitung of Berlin, March 26.

Our leadership found the way to render null and void all the preparations of our enemies—Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger, March 21.

Our front in the west stands firm as a rock, and  our enemies  will never break through—Field Marshal von Hindenburg in an interview in the Vienna Freie Presse

We are now getting the enemy out of their trenches—A high German official to the Associated Press correspondent in Berlin, March 18.

The Odds Against Germany.

Considering wealth, population and territory, more the 90 per cent of the world is at war, says the Cincinnati Post.

Roughly speaking, 80 per cent represents the allies and 10 per cent the central powers.

The remaining 10 per cent represents the neutrals.

The total wealth of the world is estimated at $700,000,000. Quite a snug sum.

About $550,000,000 belongs to the allies, $110,000,000,000 to the central powers, $40,000,000,000 to the neutrals.

The wealth of the United States is about $210,000,000,000, nearly one-half of the total wealth of the allies, more than one-third of the total wealth of the whole world.

The total population of the world in round numbers is 1,750,000,000.

The allied nation have about 1,410,000,000 people, the central powers 164,000,000, the neutrals 178,000,000.

The allies control upward of 40,000,000 square miles of territory, the central powers a little less than 3,000,000 square miles, the neutrals a little less than 10,000,000 square miles.

This will Happen When the Draft Bill Becomes a Law.

Here is what will happen when the Draft Bill, now before Congress becomes a law:

First—The President will designate by proclamation a day of registration, the voting precinct being used as the smallest unit for enrollment. The Governors of the various States will be asked to have the Sheriffs of the counties appoint registers to take the names of all males between the ages of 19 and 25. Those who refuse to enroll will be arrested.

Second—The State officers will exempt from military service "persons engaged in industries, including agricultural, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interests during the emergency."

Third—Those not exempted will be reported to the War Department, which will make further exemptions.

Fourth—It is estimated that by August 1 the 500,000 men desired will be in training camps. In the meantime the Government must provide equipment for the recruits.

Fifth—It is estimated that the registration will result in an enrollment of 7,000,000, and about 40 per cent, of this number will be weeded out on account of physical disabilities. The 500,000 to be selected from the remaining 60 per cent, will be chosen by lot.

Your Flag, and My Flag.

(By Willbur Nesbitt)

Your flag and my flag,
And how it flies to day,
In your land and my land
And half a world away!
Rose red and blood-red
The stripes forever gleam;
Snow-white and soul-white—
The good forefathers' dream.
Sky-blue and true-blue, with stars to gleam
The gloried guidon of the day; a shelter through the night.

Your flag and my flag!
And oh! how much it holds—
Your land and my land,
Secure within its folds!
Your heart and my heart
Beat quicker at the sight;
Sun-kissed and wind-tossed—
Red and blue and white.
The one flag—the great flag—the flag for me and you.
Gloried all else beside—the red and white and blue.

A Symbol of Health.

The Pythagorians of Ancient Greece ate simple food, practiced temperance and purity. As a badge they used the five pointed star which they regarded as a symbol of health. A red five pointed star appears on each package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and still fulfills its ancient mission as a symbol of health. If you are troubled with indigestion, biliousness or constipation get a package of these tablets from your druggist. You will be surprised at the quick relief which they afford. Obtainable at Paul Durg Co.

The British Minister of foreign affairs, Arthur J. Balfour, and other distinguished officials of the British government arrived in Washington for a conference last week.

Keeping Yourself WellTHE FIRST STEP

Usually the first indication of a lowering of health is found in the bowels and liver. Something goes wrong—we eat too much, or work too hard—and the bowel action weakens or the liver is sluggish. That heavy feeling on arising in the morning, dryness of the throat, with bad taste, a slight headache, dull eyes—all show that food has fermented in the intestines, and that the body is manufacturing poisons instead of good blood.

Clear it all out. Give the stomach and bowels a fresh start. Encourage the liver to go to work. Manalin does all of this, without griping or weakening. It's the ideal laxative and liver tonic, because it follows Nature's plan, without discomfort, inflammation or forming a habit. Constipation may be overcome with its use.

Liquid or tablet form. The Tablets taste like candy. Children like them, and they are safe. 10 and 25 cents. The Peruna Co. Columbus, O.

The British resumed their offensive along a twenty mile battle front captured several villages and taking 1,200 prisoners. The Germans claim that the assault failed.

Marriage Cannot Protect Slackers.

Men of military age who have married since the state of war against Germany was declared will not escape their obligations of military service under a War Department policy formally announced. The Department's statement follows:

"The War Department announces that all men married since the outbreak of war will be treated upon the same basis as unmarried men insofar as their military obligations are concerned. It is desired that the utmost publicity be given by the press to this announcement."

America's First Shot.

London, April 25.—Capt. Rice of the American steamer Mongolia, which has arrived at a British port told the Associated Press to-day that the Mongolia had fired the first gun of the war for the United States and sunk a German submarine.

The submarine, Capt. Rice said, was about to attack the great liner in British waters on April 19. He declared there was absolutely no doubt that the U-boat was hit and there was every reason to believe it was destroyed.

The naval gunners on board made a clean hit at 1,000 yards. The periscope was seen to be shattered.

Deaths at Campbellsville.

Last Tuesday Mr. W. D. Newberry, who some years ago was a citizen of Columbia, engaged in the lumber business, died at his home in Campbellsville. He was upright in all his transactions, and if we remember correctly was a zealous member of the Methodist church.

On Wednesday following Mr. Chandler Taylor, who was a son-in-law of Mr. W. I. Meader, and who had been afflicted with tuberculosis for three or four years, crossed to the other side. He is survived by his wife, father and mother and several brothers and sisters. He was born and reared in Greensburg and was a nephew of Mrs. Margaret Thomas, who taught school here before her marriage, her maiden name being Taylor. The News extends its sympathy to the wife and other relatives.

Work of Legislature.

The extraordinary session of Kentucky's General Assembly, called to consider tax reform, has adjourned. After remaining in session sixty legislative days since February 14, the lawmakers adjourned sine die at 2:30 o'clock last Wednesday.

Sweeping changes in the fiscal affairs of the State are provided for in bills that have received final and favorable action at the hands of the legislators. The special Tax Commission's three bills, which constitute the foundation for a modern tax system, were passed, essentially as drafted by the Commissioners.

The ground floor measures called for the creation of a permanent Tax Commission with inquisitorial and supervisory powers, reduce the State tax rate from 55 to 40 cents, separate and classify property for taxation purposes and provide a special tax on bank deposits.

Special license tax bills that will yield more than $1,000,000 annually also were passed during the special session. The license taxes will be collected as follows: Distilled liquors, $50,000; malt liquors, $100,000; crude oil, $200,000; corporations, $60,000; race tracks, $50,000, and tipping privileges $1,250.

Died in Her 92d Year.

April 16, 1917, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Joe Gooden and took away Mrs. Doshia Ann Roberts, Mr. Gooden's mother-in-law. Mrs. Roberts was born August 14, 1825, and died April 16, 1917, making her 91 years and 8 months old at the time of her demise. She had been a member of the Baptist Church about 50 years, and according to the testimony of those who know her, she lived strict to her profession during the whole period of her Christian life. She suffered blindness for the past ten years. She was patient in her afflictions, and often expressed an anxiety to be free and be with the Lord. She leaves a number of children and grandchildren and a host of relatives and acquaintances to mourn her departure. The funeral services were conducted April 17, by Elder H. T. Huber, at the home of Mr. Joe Gooden, where she died. A large crowd was present. The funeral text was: "The Blessed dead," Rev. 14:13. We commend the bereaved to the Lord for comfort, and exhort those left behind to strive to live as faithful Christian life as the deceased, that they may be comforted at last with the consolations of a Christian life.

Death of a Fine Citizen.

Last Tuesday forenoon, after our paper had gone to press, the news of Mr. John R. Cundiff's death reached Columbia. It was the sudden ending of a long and useful life, as the deceased was highly respected by every body who knew him. He was in comparatively good health on Saturday before his demise; was in this place, trading at the stores, and meeting his friends.

Tuesday morning he went out on his farm, and while at work he was suddenly called to the other side.

The deceased would have been seventy-nine years old had he lived until next October.

When the war of the States broke out, he enlisted in the Union army, serving his country faithfully.

As a citizen he was honest in all his transactions, and his friends were numerous.

Many years ago he made a profession of his faith in Christ, united with the Christian Church and lived consistently until the end.

He was a man who will be greatly missed, as he was a hospitable neighbor, every body who called at his home being given the glad hand of welcome.

He leaves a wife and six children, all grown.

His funeral was largely attended, every body being in sympathy with the sorrowing wife and his sons and daughters.

May the God of love comfort them in this the saddest hour that has ever come into their lives, is the wish of one who knew the kindness and worth of the deceased.

The American oil tank steamer was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine on the 28th ult., 140 miles west of Barra. The Captain and part of the crew and nine American naval officers are missing. The ship was enroute to United States.

Furious fighting characterized a renewed British offensive along a ten-mile sector of the French front from the Scarpe River northward to the city of Lens, which began early Saturday morning and resulted in a victory for the British.

Reports from the British front say that the British were successful on the Northern part of the battle sector and that they pressed forward more than a mile and occupied the town of Arieux. Desperate resistance was encountered on the Southern half of the sector between Gavrelle and Roeux. At the latter place the fighting was described as the "fiercest imaginable." German counter attacks were delivered as soon as the British scored any advance.

The British faced a well-organized trench system that had been destroyed only partly by the preliminary bombardment going on for several days. By their advance the British, for the time at least, have broadened the wedge they previously drove into the German lines near Gavrelle.

Both Senate and House voted approval of the Administration's proposal to raise a great war army on the principle of selective conscription, voting down by overwhelming majorities volunteer army amendments around which opponents of the Administration plan had centered their fight, and passing the Selective Draft Bill without material change in the more important provisions written into it by the army General Staff and approved by President Wilson. The vote in the House was 279 to 24 and in the Senate 81 to 8.

This little village is on a boom. Mr. J. C. White has nearly finished one of the most beautiful dwellings to be found in this vicinity. He is one of the best citizens in this community. He runs a mill, blacksmith's shop, and is deputy county clerk. G. W. Ruberts, our merchant, is doing a good business and he has a large stock of goods which he sells at reasonably low prices. The people have confidence in Dollage, and when he says the article you wish to buy is cheap you don't hesitate, but you just say: "cut me off ten yards." He is a real logician, and can make you believe that feathers are heavier than lead. He reasons thusly: "Nothing is heavier than lead, feathers are heavier than nothing, therefore feathers are heavier than lead" and his customers readily believe it. But he has an assistant in his store in the person of his amiable wife, who many believe, is more popular than her husband. She does not expatiate on the quality of her goods, but her very modest and refined demeanor induce you to accept as true all she says.

Now go over to Ed Logan Grant's, who lives in the suburbs of this village and see his fine stock including horses, mules and cattle, and you will be impressed with the belief that he has a good bank account. He is a farmer who runs his farm on the intensive plan. If it be noonday partake of his dinner and you will be convinced that his good wife knows how to satisfy the appetite of the most sensitive epicurian.

From Iowa.

Lake City, April 30.

Editor News:—

The north winds are bringing with them a very cold blast, and at the present time we see no indications of fairer weather, but the people all seem to be taking it very easy. I hear no complaints about the weather. I doubt though if the late spring is very unusual with the "Hawkeyes." Farmers are busy sowing oats and shelling corn, a little cool for the job, but they endure it by bringing into mind the enormous prices they are getting for their products. Corn is quoted in Lake City at $1.35 per bu., and eggs seem to be cheap at 35cts per doz. Despite the cold the grass is shooting through the earth and making an early promise of a fine harvest. Sunday school and preaching every Sunday in most all the churches and give practice on Tuesday nights. Singing is unexcelled by Kentucky. In becoming acquainted with the system of the Superintendents calling teachers from other States, still when we recall to memory the professionals in old Kentucky the mystery is cleared away. Nine o'clock is only five minutes in the distance ahead, then comes time for work. So good bye for this week.

Very truly,

A. C. Wolford.

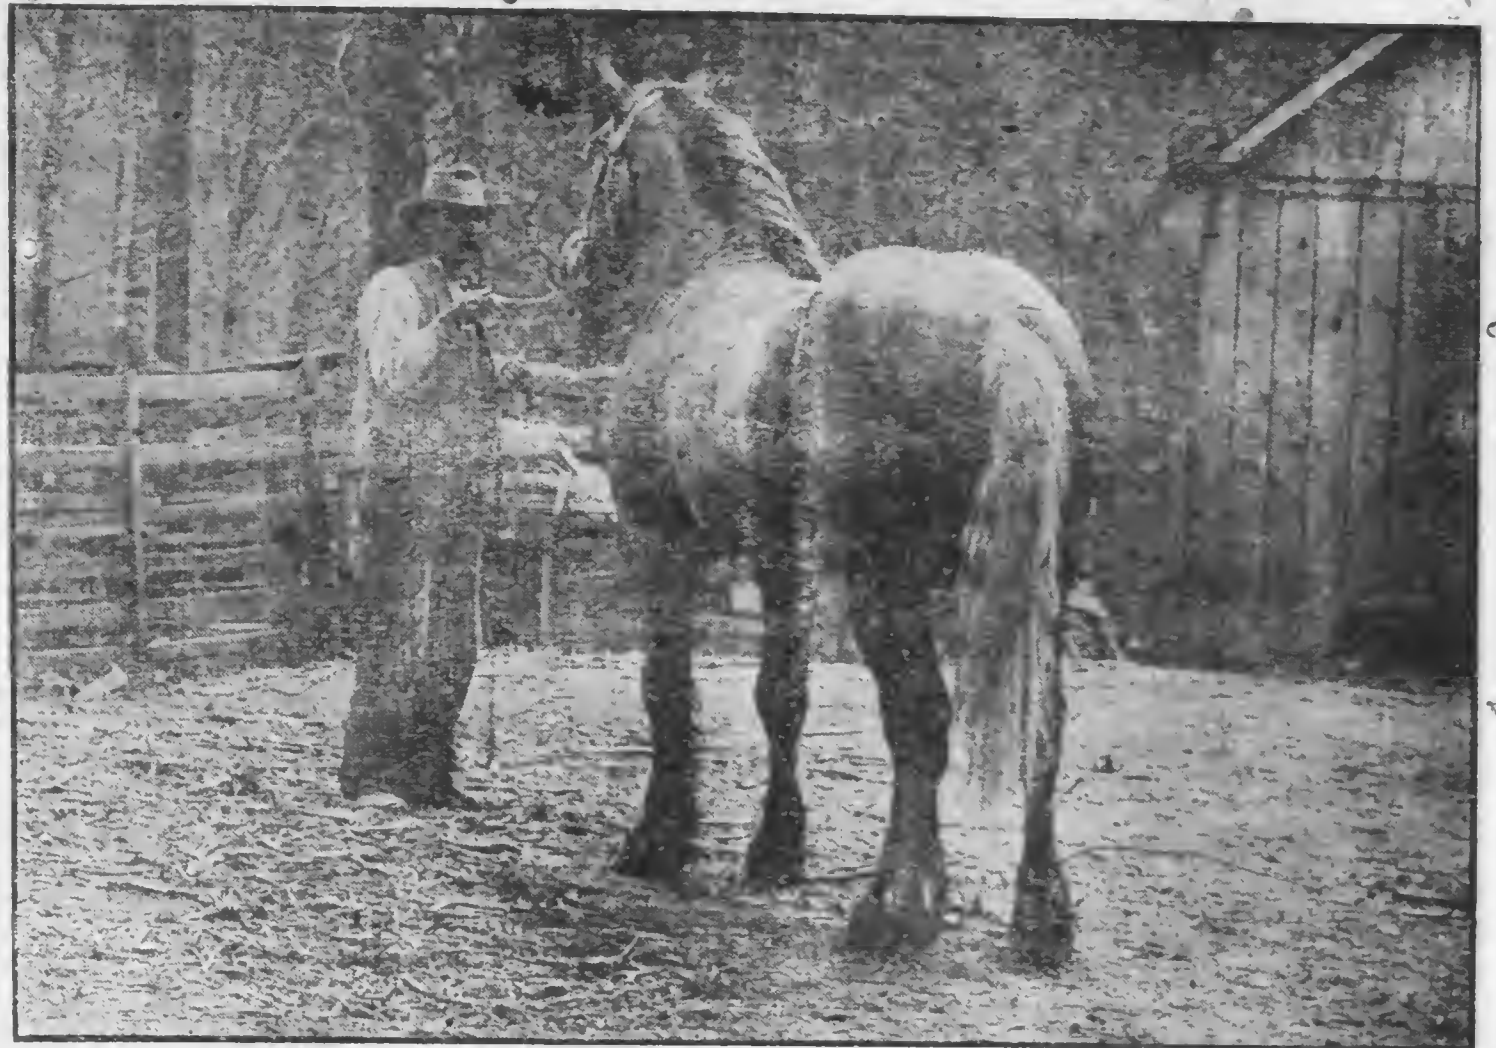

Spending the Road Fund.

R. WILEY.

When a private citizen or a corporation expends money they expect visible evidence of a wise investment. When a county, a state or other governing body invests the people's money the stockholders, who are the people themselves, expect the same of their officials as it required of the officers of a corporation.

The stockholders of a railroad company or any other company do not for one moment consider that they know everything about the management of the business, but they have wisdom enough to select experienced men to handle every branch of the work. They realize that such procedure is the first principle of efficiency and economy, and they know it is necessary in order to make a profit. When public officials depart from the above rules a waste of funds will follow, and
